

HISTORY BY LGA AREAS

An historical gazetteer of closed and renamed places, and some places with particular historic information attached, in Western Australia, arranged by LGA.

The busy Subiaco station was opened in 1883, but closed in 1998 when replaced by the new Subiaco (sunken) station.

WA Gazetteer by LGA areas

This index is a report from a database which is progressively updated. The report reflects only that information added to the database up to the date of printing, which is shown at bottom of each page.

The places are arranged in alphabetic order within each Local Governmetn Area (city, shire, etc). Two additional are as are included: "Offshore" which includes islands but also some bridges where their centre point is in a river excluded form LGA boundaries, and "Australia- east" to include some schools and stations along that portion of the trans-Australian railway in South Australia.

Positions are shown by latitude (south) and longitude (east) in decimal degrees, based on the GDA94 datum. In the Perth region, co-ordinates in metres are also shown for use with street directory - zone 50 GDA94 datum. GDA94 may be considered the same as the WGS84 datum commonly used by GPS. Positions underlined with asterisks are approximate only.

The author wishes to acknowledge all the help received in compilation of this listing over a long period. I particularly wish to thank Jeff Austin for many years of research in the field and in records. Thanks also for railway information to Peter Hopper for his early research and Weekly Notice indexes, Kieran Wright and Bernie Morris for checks and Graham Watson for archives access and to many others who have provided information. Special thanks to George Campbell, formerly of teh Education Departmetn of WA, for his schools listing.

More information is always needed. If you can assist with corrections and/or additions, please do contact the compiler as shown below.

An alternative report is available showing these places in alphabetic order - check our website or contact the compiler.

*I hope you find this listing useful.
